BOOZE PEDDLERS HEAVY FINE

Probation Officer Will Investigate Record of Men

BOOTLEGGERS OF MARTINEZ GET SOAKED 250 DOLLARS

In the future in the enforcement of the Volstead act, the federal agents are going to enforce rough tactics, such as jumping over bars, seizing flasks out of the hands of bartenders. The forcible arrests of liquor law violators are to be superseded by gentler methods, where the same results will be accomplished with much less effort. This was the announcement made yesterday at the office of the federal law enforcement agent in San Francisco.

Judge Dooling's court was filled with bootleggers yesterday, and part of the array hailed from Contra Costa county.

F. L. Fowler, proprietor of a Martinez hotel, told Judge Dooling that bootleggers would come right in his hotel and sell their liquor.

"Every one was doing it," he said, "so I did." Judge Dooling fined him $250, as he did Joe Gonzalez, also of Martinez.

Glen D. Willaman, former well-known newspaperman of the state and now secretary-treasurer of the California Real Estate Association writes a letter to the Record-Herald that is well worth publishing. It gives the viewpoint of an outsider, and speaks for itself. It reads as follows:

G. E. Milnes, Publisher Richmond Record-Herald:

Your splendid Christmas edition received and read with interest. Allow me to congratulate your office on the splendid showing therein contained. Business and news and holiday greetings are in proportion to the prosperity in evidence in your great industrial city.

I was much interested to note that your city ranks among the first five in California in the value of manufacturing products. You even pass some of the larger cities that have government stations. Richmond certainly has a greater manufacturing future, and the men and women who compose its sturdy citizenship have a great opportunity to share in its progress. Steadily maintained home community boosting as evidenced in your front page editorial is the publicity that helps your town all the time.

Our state officers are pleased to note the valued support which the Richmond Record-Herald extends to the Richmond Real Estate Board. In a city like yours where a progressive and fair-minded real estate organization is an essential factor to your substantial growth along sound metropolitan lines, the support and encouragement of the local press is a material factor.

I am sure that the Richmond Real Estate Board has plans laid for a very useful part in your community's development. Conforming to the high code of ethics of the state and national organizations, the local board is bound to be a strong help to your town. The lead of able real estate dealers, who maintain established places of business can well be accepted in the working out of plans for the betterment of the city along real property principles.

The real estate men represent the basic commodity of all cities' prosperity, and when they are organized, they are in the best position to judge of their service to their fellow townsmen.

Again complimenting you Mr. Milnes on your high regard for the sound advancement of your community, and extending the best wishes of our state officers to you and your staff.

I am very sincerely yours,
GLEN D. WILLAMAN,
Secretary-Treasurer.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 20.—The state Veterans' Welfare Board today officially received approximately 3,000 applications of veterans for aid under the farm and home purchase act.

OFFICIAL PAPER CITY OF RICHMOND

THINKOGRAPHS by F. J. HULANISKI

DOCTORS AND "ETHICS"

Dr. Lorenz is one of the world's greatest surgeons, making a specialty of children's spinal diseases. His records of cures in this field is marvelous. Recently he came to this country from Austria, owing to war conditions having impoverished him there, and is now practicing in New York. He sets aside all rules of the profession by treating free of all charge any and all patients too poor to pay a fee, and great is the howl that has gone up by a lot of Eastern medics, who are treating this world-famous physician like any set of jealous nonentities might be expected to. This has raised a storm among the people and the press, who say the so-called "ethics" of the New York doctors who have snubbed Dr. Lorenz, are derived from a culture smacking sharply of the jungle.

All this "ethics" business upon the part of "regular" and "non-regular" physicians all over the country has always been pretty much of a mystery to the average layman, like most of us are. To the average person a doctor is a doctor, and some of 'em worse, and we do not say what all the ethics row is about, but have a sneaking idea that it has more to do with the fees than anything else. The medical profession is a wonderful profession, and the world owes it a great debt, but there is a sprinkling among them who send us to drug stores with cipher dispatches who couldn't tell what is the matter with a suffering mortal if he was made of glass and lit up by electricity. Some of them are wonders, and this Dr. Lorenz is one of that kind, and then again some of them can't tell the difference between a case of "moonshine" jaundice and an itch for office. We have met them that could not tell a bunton from a stone bruise, or find the joints in a string of sausages. Just as soon as the doctor got to using Latin to write prescriptions if became a dead language. We were advised once to "throw physic to the dogs," but had too much respect for the dogs. Most doctors, though, are mighty fine fellows, even if they won't practice on their own families like they do on the rest of us.

An agitator is a thing
Around where they smelt lead.
Likewise a geek with chronic grouch
And wheels within his head.

Members of unions are not the only ones who want more money and less work.

A syndicate has acquired one of the Bahama islands off the Florida coast and will build a grand gambling and booze resort there. Joyful prospects! A man will be able to go there, lose his shirt gambling, and then peacefully drink himself to death.

Awful lot of yeggs these reconstruction days,
reconstructing the map of the innocent bystander
with a yard of gaspipe.

Over the portals of all bootlegging infernos should hang Dante's slogan: "All who enter here, check their baggage through to h—l."

California lays claim to being the land of eternal sunshine, as contrast to the Ozark mountain country, where there is infernal moonshine.

The Bequaumont kiss by rubbing noses together, and that is the way fish make love, also. Maybe that accounts for the saying, "You poor fish."

Probably Congress would have favored the soldiers' bones if it had been Congress that was going to get it, instead of the soldiers.

Those who would dig old John Barleycorn out of his foul tomb would realize the immensity of the job if they would stop and consider the fact that they now have 36,000,000 women voters to deal with.

Whatever else Mr. Bryan may be, he is a good prohibitionist. Whenever he attends a convention of any kind he immediately commences to smell
the delegates' breaths, both literally and figuratively.

THE WORLD GETTING BETTER

In spite of the many things which seemingly point to the contrary, such as selfishness and greed, political perfidy, and the like, still it is a fact that,
taken as a whole, the world is getting better than it used to be, and there is a large room in that fact for us all to be glad and thankful. The history of the world is not the history of evil triumphant, as some confirmed pessimists would have us believe. Very far from it. There is today in the world more truth and beauty, more of virtue and living kindness than ever before. Men and women individually are less selfish. Reaction from the horrors of war has stimulated mortal enthusiasm through Christendom. The new crusade is on the way to deliver righteousness forever from an unnatural sepulcher. Churches, schools, worar-ies, women's clubs, social centers, public and private charities, evangelists of mercy, lodges, dedicated to noble objects of service, and many similar indications point unerringly to this fact. They are making the world better. If this were not true there would be no conference now debating humanity's welfare.

Take the human race as a whole, its chief need is not more land, but more sense, more industry and a more intelligent use of what it already has.

After inspecting advanced styles that the fashion plates are submitting, we feel that we would like them more if the artists would add a suggestion of cornfedness to the girls. Instead of making them look like elongated anemic and attenuated interrogation points.

Walt Mason, after a slant in the direction of Europe, says: "Once kings could sit around in state, and watch the palace fountains squirt, but that bright day has pulled its freight, and monarchs now are cheap as dirt. Once kings were proud and busy with courtiers kneeling at their feet, but now they look like thirty cents,
and wish they had enough to eat."

Most of the advice on how to succeed in life, and how to run the country, emanates from those who never made a success of anything.

France backs down on its demand for a big navy. Sure. They had to if they did not want Uncle Sam to present them with a bill for a couple of billions, with "please remit" written in one corner of it.

The people of Germany are expressing their favor of a republican form of government and their sentiment against the old military order of things by monster parades and meetings in the larger cities. Nobody dreads fire more than the burned child.

Since all these little islands in the Pacific are a "menace," why not invest in a few dollars worth of dynamite and blow them off the map?

We read much of late about "birth control." It is something we do not care to write about, so pass it up by quoting Archbishop Hayes of New York, who says that to deny the right of existence in life and eternally to a human soul is worse than the murder of a body. We have long ago said that "children are God's calling cards."

The Irish Republic Congress had a Kilkenny-cat time of it over the ratification of the peace treaty with England, but then that was to be expected.
If there had not been a fight over the adjustment of the Irish question it would not have been an Irish question.

It is not nice or polite to tell anybody a liar,
so we are not going to notice these chaps at all who brag that they take a cold bath every morning
these cold mornings.

There are $700,000 in new silver dollars now being coined in the U. S. mint, one side showing the eagle perched on a broken sword and clutching an olive branch with the word "Peace" inscribed below. Fine! Wish we had the whole bloomin' seven hundred thousand!

My Gift

When Santa Claus is hitching up
The reindeers to his sleigh,
I'm going to bring a great big bag
Of love to him and say—

Dear Santa Claus, please take this bag
And on each Christmas tree
Tie just a little bunch of love
Fast with a memory.

Be you dear friend I wish the best
Of all good gifts that are,
Good health, and wealth, and fame, and love,
The last more precious far.

Search ye closely every branch
When candles bright the tree,
And you will find my bit of love
Tied with a memory.

"The Great Moment"

Paramount Production
at Richmond Theater

The first picture to present Gloria Swanson as a star in her own right is "The Great Moment," by Mme. Elmer Glyn, a Paramount picture, which comes to the Richmond T. & D. Theater today and tomorrow.

Miss Swanson has the role of a half gypsy girl who tries vainly to still the tumult in her heart endangered by her partially nomadic ancestry, and the role is said to fit her wonderfully.

Miss Swanson had just completed her work in the all-star cast of Cecil B. De Mille's "The Affairs of Anatol" when she was called upon to embark on her first stellar production. With her accustomed vigor she entered upon her duties with a full determination to excel anything she had done before.

From all accounts it is one of the most satisfactory films ever produced. Milton Sills is leading man and other notables in the cast include Alec B. Francis, F. R. Butler, Arthur Hull, Raymond Brathway, Helen Dunbar, Clarence Geldart and Julia Faye.

T. & D. News and an educational comedy reel complete the bill.

If you want the local news ahead of any other paper, you must take the Record-Herald.

Toys I Used to Know

WITHIN the shopping center here I stand, a wail and stray. And watch the throngs of women pass.

Who pay and pay and pay. Wide-eyed, I look about, but oh! Where are the toys I used to know?

Swift an acrobat goes by. To boyhood's marveling. And fascinated eyes rove high To watch the wonder thing. But, heart of mine, across my sight There floats a little homelike kite.

My boy demands a 'lectric train. With fifty feet of track. His modern spirit skims the plain And brooks no holding back. O Christmas when I used to bless My key-wound fifty-cent express!

My little girl I must amuse. And so I buy at view A doll that wears French high-heeled shoes And silken stockings too! Yet let a vision from above— My sister's doll, of rage and love!

O dear, dead days that brought to me My earliest burst of speed. When Santa placed beneath the tree My first "Velocity!" Yet my son tells the Christmas Car He's got to have a motorcar.

O tree, long since decayed and dead. What joys you held apart! Gaze now those mittens, thick and red. Warm'd both my hands and heart! But now my wife I have to buy A pair of auto gauntlets high.

Hark, where the incandescents gleam Amid the costly show. I seem to see, as in a dream, The penny candles glow. True of my youth! My heart, grown new, Again hangs on a branch of you! —John O'Keefe, in New York World.

LAST PRACTICE WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

The last practice for the Community Methodist church Christmas tree program will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and all children are asked to attend. The tree and program will be given on Friday at 7:30 p. m. The building will be heated and comfortable and all those interested are invited to attend.

CANDIED BERRIES AND PEEL FOR CHRISTMAS GIFT JARS

Unusual homemade confections are always an ideal Christmas remembrance when one does not wish to spend very much money. The little jars with screwed-on lids in which salad dressing is often sold make admirable containers for gifts of this kind if they are decorated with bright-colored splashes of enamel paint or simple designs in black.

Candied cranberries are easily made. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends the following way of preparing them:

Candied Cranberries.

3 cups of large cranberries.
2 cups water.
3 cups sugar.

Select large, firm cranberries. Make three small slits, each one-eighth inch long, in each berry with the point of a penknife. Boil the sugar and water together until clear. Allow this sirup to cool, add the berries and bring very slowly to the boiling point. The saucepan should be large enough to permit all the berries to float at the top of the sirup during cooking. If the berries are heated too quickly, the skins will burst before the sirup soaks into the pulp. As soon as the sirup boils, take the dish off the stove and let it stand over night.

Next day drain the sirup from the berries and reduce it to about half its original volume by boiling. Cool the sirup, place the berries in it, heat again slowly; boil very gently for 3 or 4 minutes, and allow to stand for two hours or more. Then boil gently a third time for 5 minutes. Allow the berries to stand in the thick sirup over night; warm once more, so that the sirup will be thin enough to pour easily, and drain the berries from the sirup.

Spread them on a clean cloth or oiled paper to dry. When dry, the berries should be bright, firm, plump, and semitransparent.

Jellied peel is another delicious confection which can be made from materials available practically everywhere. Either grapefruit, orange, or lemon peel may be used.

Jellied Peel.

5 ounces peel cut in thin strips
1/4 inch wide (grapefruit, orange or lemon).

1 cup sugar for sirup.
2-3 cup water for sirup.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/2 cup sugar for rolling strips.

Use strips of thick, soft peel free from blemishes from bright-colored, heavy, smooth-skinned grapefruit, lemons or oranges. Add 1 quart of cold water, boil for one-half hour. Repeat this process until the strips have been parboiled three times, discarding the water after each cooking. The strips should then be tender.

Dissolve the sugar in the water for the sirup, in a small saucepan, add the strips of grapefruit or orange peel, and cook rapidly for about 20 minutes, then place an asbestos mat under the pan, and continue the boiling about 20 minutes longer, or until the sirup is all absorbed by the peel. Grate care must be taken at this peel and sugar, but in parboiling the peel use only enough water to cover it well. In making the sirup, use four cups of sugar but only 1 1/4 cups of water; it will then be necessary to cook the strips in the sirup only for about 60 minutes, just as when doubling the recipe. Thus the "boiling-down" process becomes less tedious.

Candied cranberries and jellied peel may both be used effectively for decorating Christmas cakes and cookies in place of cherries, citron, angelica, etc. Those who have preserved watermelon rind on hand may like to tint it green with harmless vegetable coloring, flavor it with a few drops of peppermint, and use it in combination with the red of the cranberries and the yellow jellied peel. Or the jellied peel may be colored with harmless vegetable coloring by adding a small quantity of coloring to the last water in which the peel is parboiled.

Dates stuffed with strips of grapefruit peel instead of with peanuts or almonds are interesting and new. When the date pit has been replaced by a strip of the peel the sirup is made, use four times as much

Breaking the Shackles of Time

CLOCKS are as much a matter of course as suspenders or sausages. But it took energy and initiative to get the first clock on the kitchen shelf and start it going. The Yankee pack peddler was sole distributor and transporter. His lean, lanky, loose-jointed legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days.

Modern transportation with progressive sales methods—and advertising—have broken the shackles of time. They make a quick job of what used to take years. Through advertising, many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country.

This newspaper does you a two-fold service. It not only brings you news of the world, but also news of what to buy, where to buy and how to buy.

The advertisements are news columns of merchants and manufacturers who have important stories to tell you.

Take advantage of them. Read the latest news of good things to be had—and where to get them.

Why Are You Reading This Ad?

Is it because you have decided to buy a home from someone who has to sell very cheap for cash, or an equity at a great loss, or to buy a centrally located large lot and build one to suit yourself? Or to buy as an investment one or more lots, located so near the present or future business center that they are sure to soon be needed for business purposes? If so I have them. Why? Because during the last 10, 15, and 20 years I have spent most of my time visiting interior towns and I have always confined my sales to better centers selling Richmond lots, to lots located either ON or within two or three blocks of Macdonald Ave., west of the S. F. R. R. many of these old friends or acquaintances have built homes on their lots and have been renting them; others have come to Richmond and built homes and are living in them. For various reasons some wish to sell; many others have sold their lots or have paid for them, but have allowed them to remain unimproved. Since the war came about (1914) I discontinued traveling and a few years ago opened a Real Estate office here in Richmond and got in correspondence with many old friends and acquaintances in the interior towns, and am in daily receipt of letters from some of them authorizing me to sell their lots or house and lots. Come and see me, and I'll show you what I have today, of which here are a few.

5-room well built modern house, lot 40x112½, plenty of yard room, planted in flowers and vegetables; windmill supplying good water; newly built garage. Located east of Sixth St., north of Macdonald. Price $3250. Cheap for cash, or terms easy.

One, two or three lots together on north line of Bissell, near 12th—75x112½; 2 lots, 50x112½ on 10th between Macdonald and Bissell; 3 lots together on 19th, ½ blk. north of Macdonald.

I can sell some of the above lots as low as $900.

Corner, 50x110, located on S. E. corner of 10th and Barrett—very corner of 10th and Barrett—very corner of 10th and Barrett—very

Two lots, 50x107, north line of Nevil, near 19th—very cheap, cash or terms.

STRANGE CASE OF BLOOD POISONING

For about 8 months I was confined to the house and part of the time to my bed with a strange malady. My face and hands were being partially closed. Whenever I went out into the air my face and hands burned as though they were on fire. My skin itched so that I wanted to scratch and tear at myself continually. Also I had cross eyes from blood poisoning.

I treated with several physicians, who termed my trouble blood poisoning. None seemed to understand the case, and some were even frank enough to say that death alone could give me relief. Six weeks ago I read of the return from China of the renowned FONG WAN HERB SPECIALIST. I immediately sent to him and began to drink the herb tea. I cooked my own herbs at home. Now all the inflammation and swelling are gone. Everything is normal again and I am in perfect condition.
